Arizona Western College is looking to expand the program and seeking possibilities to building a new permanent training facility to better serve the community. Dr. Corr commented this saves local tax payer's huge amount of dollars due to each agency having to pay up to 20k to send individuals to Tucson or Phoenix and be away from their family for 20 to 22 weeks. The training is now being done locally and saving the local tax payers hundreds of thousands of dollars. Dr. Corr acknowledged Reetika Dhawan and Alfonzo Zavala for their hard work.

Virtual etiquette

Pandemic introduces a new set of rules

BY MARA KHAUB
SUN STAFF WRITER

The way business is conducted during the COVID-19 pandemic has changed a lot.

Social distancing and stay-at-home orders forced meetings to go virtual, introducing a new set of rules for some people.

Even with the reopening of the business community, virtual contact is still expected and encouraged.

But this new virtual reality doesn't only apply to company meetings. In many cases, prospective employees are participating in virtual job interviews.

To help navigate this new world, the Yuma County Chamber of Commerce, during its "Good Morning, Yuma!" event held Jan. 14, presented the program "Virtual Etiquette for Business Professionals" through Facebook Live.

"Things have kind of changed. People are doing interviews virtually, reviews virtually and certainly working with their subordinates, workers and bosses virtually," said Kimberly Kahl, the chamber's executive director.

Mariana Martinez, engagement liaison with Arizona@Work-Yuma County, and Moises Pimental, the organization's business services consultant, shared tips on proper virtual etiquette.

"Virtual etiquette has become something extremely important. We strongly believe that the virtual space and virtual etiquette is here to stay from now on," Pimental said.

Here are the seven tips they offered:

TIP 1: BE AWARE OF YOUR ENVIRONMENT

Find a quiet place with no distractions, including cell

What is STEDY?
STEDY is the Southwest Technical Education District of Yuma. We are a career and technical education (CTE) public high school district. We serve ALL high school students enrolled in public, private, and charter school CTE courses; providing them with educational experiences that lead to an industry recognized certification. As a career and technology public school district, we work closely with the Arizona Department of Education. SUCCESS STORIES

“I was dual-enrolled with Portable Practical Education Preparation (PPEP) and YPIC. My experience with both programs was excellent. They help me grow and reach my educational goal of obtaining my High School Equivalent Diploma. I realized that anything is possible. I couldn’t believe the amount of help and support I received to move forward. I believe the Youth Program really helps the Youth like myself to achieve in life with their guidance. I am currently participating in a work experience in my career of interest.”
